Question 7

The piece I found was named Blending of cultures choreographed by Ruban Rouges. The piece was about the different cultures around the world. It had lots of story's in one piece. It was very interesting to watch the mosaic ideas and dance being fused together as one. It was also very magical and enlightening to see the company the youth of our community. The piece was something like I've never seen before. Also something that I didn't think I would like. It's a very different concept just to see it all come together but it comes out great when it's done. At least from what I've seen.

You haven't told me anything about the dance at all!
