

ART POWER: Does art have the power to change the world?

Exhibit Reflection

Studio in Art

© dentel

student name

Explore the ART POWER Exhibit.

Choose one of your peers' art works that speaks strongly to you as an individual.

Read their artist statement and answer the following questions. (Complete sentences please!)

Artist's Name: Zoe Klien

Social Issue: Bullying

Title: Suicide thoughts

Medium/Media: Clay, acrylic paint

Size: 16in x 15in x 16in

Date Completed: 6/1/16

- Why does this artwork interest you?
- What statement is being made?
- Have you ever considered this issue before seeing this work?
- How are your viewpoints on this issue the same or different from this artist?
- Explain how the artist was successful or not successful with making you think differently (or more in depth) about this issue.

This art project interest me because It is like "close to home". my best friend tried killing her self other kids bullying him. Words dont just hurt they hurt our feelings and our eyes, I had thought about it before we started the project, I was hoping we were doing a project that had to do social issues. Same view point because people need to watch what they say before it comes and hurts them in the future. She was successful by coming to the result in making her point in the social issue project.

OVER→